SENATOR BRADLEY DIES AT CAPITAL

After Several Years Of Poor Health.

HAD DISTINGUISHED CAREER

First Member of the G. O. P. to Be Elected Governor of Kentucky.

BURIAL TO BE AT FRANKFORT

Washington, May 23.—William O'Connell Bradley, Kentucky's senior United States Senator, and the most distinguished Southern Republican, passed from coma into death to-night at 9:45 o'clock. A general refusal of his organs to functionate was the immediate cause of death, but the Senator had been in poor health ever since he entered the upper House of Congress in May, 1909. General kidney and prostatic trouble was his malady. On May 14 last he had announced that poor health precluded his making the race to succeed himself, and that he would retire from public life at the end of his present term, March 4, 1915.

For twelve years Senator Bradley was a member of the Republican National committee, and became a candidate for Governor of the State in 1887. Two years later he was tendered important posts to Korea, but declined them, and was elected Governor of the State in 1894, for a term of four years. He thus became the first Republican Governor of Kentucky ever had. In 1909 he was chosen Senator from Kentucky, defeating former Governor J. C. W. Beckham before the Kentucky legislature. His term would have expired on March 4, 1915.

Governor To Fill Vacancy.

Frankfort, Ky., May 25.—Gov. McCreary will have authority to appoint a successor to Senator Bradley to fill the vacancy until the election of next November, when a Senator will be elected for a six-year term, commencing March 4, 1915. The appointment cannot be made until June 18, at which time the law becomes operative, as it did not carry an emergency clause.

A few minutes after the Senator had given his statement to the press he left his office for his apartment in Falkstone Courts, and while hastening for a street car, fell heavily, with the outward injuries of two broken fingers and a gashed forehead. It was feared at the time that the Senator had suffered internal injuries, but none developed at the time, and the resolute old Kentuckian insisted upon resuming his official duties two days after his fall. This was last Saturday. The following day found him slightly relapsed, but he came to his office again on Monday, Wednesday morning, however, found him complaining of feeling badly again. Nevertheless, he went to his office, but during the afternoon, while he was seated at his desk, dictating letters, a painful seizure gripped him and a physician was called.

At first this attack was diagnosed as acute indigestion and, after treatment in his office, the Senator was taken to his home and went to bed. From that bed he never arose. His condition changed from serious to critical, then to desperate. Dr. Lewis A. Walker, his physician, worked over him all Thursday night and Friday morning and was able to revive the Senator to some extent, so that he put in a good day yesterday. But the hope of the day was changed to sorrow on the part of his bedside watchers last night when the distinguished patient's kidneys became congested, and his unconscious and delirious condition was no longer dispelled by periods of intelligence. For a time to-day Mr. Walker was able to rouse the Senator's sluggish organ, but he remained unconscious and delirious throughout the day, gradually sinking to death to-night.

At Senator's Bradley's bedside when the end came were his daughter, Mrs. John G. South, of Frankfort; Senator Ollie James, Miss Relia Lane, his secretary, Herbert May, a nephew, Mrs. Emma Grigsby, a sister of Miss Lane; his physician, a physician and a few neighbors.

Many of his colleagues expressed regret to-night over his death. Among them were Senators Kern, Kenyon and James.

Senator James said to-night the congressional funeral committee probably will be appointed Monday and a funeral train leave for Frankfort Monday afternoon. The burial will be in the Frankfort cemetery at the Senator's request.

Sketch of Dead Senator.

Senator Bradley was born on a farm near Lancaster, Garrard county, Ky., March 18, 1847. He was the son of Robert M. and Nancy E. (Totten) Bradley. The education he received in the ordinary public schools was all that "young Bradley" ever enjoyed. He ran away to war at an age when most boys are beginning their academic pursuits and never attended college. The boy joined the army twice, enlisting in the Union cause, but both times his father took the matter into his hands and forced the return of his son.

By a special act of the Legislature.

in 1865 he was admitted to practice law, being but eighteen years of age.

Senator Bradley was married to Miss Margaret R. Duncan, of Lancaster, Ky., July 11, 1864. In 1870 he was elected prosecuting attorney for Garrard county, and represented his county as Presidential elector in 1872, becoming a candidate for Congress in the same year, and four years later.

He was the nominee of his party for the United States Senate at different times, and delegate-at-large to the Republican National conventions in 1880, 1884, 1892, 1900, 1904, and made a speech seconding the nomination of Grant in 1880. Eight years later he himself received 106 votes in the national convention for his party's Vice-residential nomination. He was endorsed for the Presidential nomination at the State convention of his party in 1896.

The slayer escaped, and excitement is running high in the neighborhood. Physicians who examined the wounds declared it would have been physically impossible for the girl to have committed suicide, judging by the character of the wound.

So far the razor found on the bed has not been identified. It has been placed in the hands of the officers who are working on the case. Coroner Zimmerman held an inquest on the body of Miss Young this morning and the jury found that she met her death at hands of an unknown murderer. Heavy fingernail cuts in both cheeks indicate that the murderer held the girl while her head was almost cut off with the razor.

The "N. Schritzler, San Antonio, Tex." was in a hat found outside the door where the murderer entered.

Officers believe the child was murdered by a burglar. A singular coincidence was that a tablecloth the little girl bought yesterday was held over her mouth to suppress her screams while her throat was being cut. The belief is that the girl was awakened when the burglar entered, and when she started to scream the tablecloth was held over her mouth.

THIRTY MILITANTS ARRESTED

Danville, Ky., May 23.—Miss Zelma Young, the pretty thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Young, was murdered in a most horrible manner last night by an unknown person. The slayer broke down a rear door and after gaining entrance to the girl's room, slashed her throat from ear to ear with a razor, which was left on the bed.

The slayer escaped, and excitement is running high in the neighborhood. Physicians who examined the wounds declared it would have been physically impossible for the girl to have committed suicide, judging by the character of the wound.

The police precautions had been directed toward repelling an assault from the direction of Westminster, where the suffragettes had advertised that they would form a parade. Instead, a small body, known because of their record as "gun women," burst from a private residence on Hyde Park corner and forced their way through the archway at the top of Constitution Hill before the small squad of police on duty there had time to collect and resist them.

Headed by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, the women swept down Constitution Hill toward Buckingham Palace, but when half way along they met the most hated enemy of the militants in the person of Inspector Riley, who has charge of the suffragette detail at the Scotland Yard police headquarters.

The shock of the combat was short but sharp and resulted in the arrest of many women, who in the fighting used clubs with a facility which betrayed long training.

The roadway had just been sprinkled with water and many mounted policemen were thrown. Their comrades on foot rolled with them into the mud, but eventually, the strength of the policemen told, and in a few minutes more than 30 women, including Mrs. Pankhurst, had been plaited under arrest, while the others had been scattered into small groups.

One group headed by Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, reached a point almost across the drive from the palace, where mounted police surrounded the women and placed Miss Sylvia and several of her comrades in custody.

The crowd at this point was so dense that the attempts of the police to clear the drive were without success until recourse was had to water sprinkling carts, which ruined many of the fine gowns of the fashionable women spectators who had gathered to watch the expected battle.

The casualties were not numerous, consisting of a few broken heads but much harm was done to the uniforms of the police and to the dresses of the women.

At no time were more than 200 women engaged in the battle, while opposed to them was a force of 1,500 police. The ambulance corps were on the scene, and both male and female nurses found plenty to do with cases of fainting among the peace.

The parties were Oscar Mitchell and Miss Raymond Loving and Sam Johnson and Miss Lula Mitchell. Miss Mitchell is only 13 and Miss Loving is 15. The grooms are 21 and 19 respectively. Accompanying the runaways were Miss Syble Ray and Frank Tague.

The girls left home ostensibly to attend a carnival in Madisonville, but at Madisonville they met the boys and took a train for Hopkinsville. On their arrival here they secured an automobile and made a quick trip to Clarksville and back here, but arrived just three minutes too late to catch the night train home. They spent the night here and left on the early morning train to seek parental forgiveness.

men as well as the women, leaving dozens in his wake unable to rise.

One woman about 60 years old was singled out by an unmounted policeman as an egg-thrower. With all the strength at his command he hit the old woman full in the mouth and face, and then threw her to the pavement with such force that she was rendered unconscious. Ten feet away a girl not more than 17 years old was knocked down by another policeman, and she lay bleeding where she fell for many minutes until friends bandaged her wounded head and took her away in a cab.

Altogether the whole affair was revolting in its unnecessary brutality.

ELEVEN INDICTMENTS
SLATED FOR CROCKETT

Henderson, Ky., May 23.—The May term of the Henderson county grand jury, after being in session one day this week, adjourned to meet next Monday morning at 10 o'clock, at which time several indictments will be returned into court.

The jury was prepared to make a final report Wednesday afternoon, but on account of Judge Birkhead, who is sitting as special judge, not having received his commission from the Governor, he declined to receive the report. He requested the jury to adjourn to meet again Monday morning, May 25, at which time the regular judge will be on the bench.

When the jury reports next Monday morning 11 true bills will be returned against Ingram Crockett, in connection with the shortage in the funds of the Planters State bank. These indictments will cover a number of irregularities in the records of the bank, running over a period of several months, while he was the cashier.

Mr. Crockett is under a $50,000 bond for his appearance in court in the event indictments were reported. Another indictment to be reported when the jury meets next Monday will be against young Albert Schnabel, a Corydon boy yet in his teens, charging him with rape. He is out on bail, having been held over by Judge Young at the examining trial several months ago.

A number of other true bills will be returned. Some of the parties are in jail or on bond.

JOHN THIXTON DIES
AT OWENSBORO HOME

Owensboro, Ky., May 23.—John Thixton, one of the most prominent citizens of Owensboro, died of heart trouble this morning at his home on Frederica street. Mr. Thixton was born in Jefferson county March 17, 1834. He came to this county in 1849 with his parents. Mr. Thixton's first wife was a daughter of Daniel Murphy. In 1865 he quit farming and came to Owensboro and engaged in the grocery and liquor business. For many years he was a prominent distiller. Mr. Thixton's first wife died in 1876, leaving seven children. He was married a second time in 1882 to Miss Fannie Dickinson, of Louisville.

Mr. Thixton was for many years president of the Bank of Commerce of Owensboro, which merged with the United States National Bank. He was a director in the latter bank. He also founded the Central City Deposit Bank and the Brandenburg Deposit Bank. He was the owner of a great amount of valuable real estate in Owensboro and elsewhere. His children are Charles G. Thixton, John Thixton, Harry Thixton and Mrs. James Hardwick, of Louisville, and Mrs. Charles Shively, of Norwalk, O., and Mrs. James Heavrin, of Hawesville.

STANLEY 47 YEARS OLD—HAS MADE GOOD RECORD

Washington, May 25.—Augustus O. Stanley, representative in Congress from the Second Kentucky district and aspirant for the seat of William O. Bradley in the United States Senate, was born in Shelbyville, Ky., May 21, 1867. His education was received at Center College, Danville, Ky. He was admitted to the bar in 1894 and has since practiced his profession in Henderson, Ky. Mr. Stanley was elected to Congress in 1903 and is now serving his sixth term. He has an excellent record in the House of Representatives. He was chairman of the committee which investigated the Steel Trust. He is a speaker of uncommon ability. In his present contest for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Kentucky he has as his opponents Governor James B. McCreary and former Governor J. C. W. Beckham.

THE DEPOSITORS NUMBER 1,000

Paris, May 23.—The people of this city and county who reposed their trust in George B. Alexander and thereby will sustain losses aggregating more than a quarter of a million dollars, are greatly depressed over the failure of the bank of George B. Alexander & Co., but they have made no demonstration against the President of the defunct institution.

However, they are not taking their losses uncomplainingly, though practically all of them are prone to accuse themselves of overconfidence in "Prince George," as Alexander is called by many who were his friends.

There are seven Directors of the bank, including Alexander. They are Reuben B. Hutchcraft, Sr., wealthy farmer and grain man; E. P. Claybrook, wealthy farmer; J. W. Bacon, a capitalist; John M. Breman, former lawyer, now a farmer; Wallace W. Mitchell, former Cashier of the bank, now a merchant, and Harry B. Clay, a well-to-do farmer. The bank's employees were Owen L. Davis, Cashier, and Joseph Mitchell, bookkeeper, Mitchell being a brother-in-law of Alexander.

The depositors and other creditors of the bank, which had a capital stock of only $40,000, and was in the habit of paying 28 per cent a year dividends upon the stock, the 400 shares of which were quoted at $250 a share, numbered approximately 1,000.

There is an inclination on the part of many of the depositors and lenders to censure the directors, but this is checkmated by the statement of facts that the confidence the directors had in Alexander was of the same steadfast sort that the bank's patrons possessed.

As Wallace Mitchell said this morning, the State Bank Examiner would come twice each year and make an examination in the presence of the President and Directors, and "everything looked all right."

It was because of the general confidence in Alexander, purely perfunctory on the part of the Directors. They were so in the habit of saying to one another, "George says it's all right, and George knows." With the bank's patrons generally it was a case of "Let George look after it; he knows how to do it."

It is certain that suits will be brought by several hundred persons, scores upon scores of whom already have engaged counsel, and it is anticipated that there will be much mitigation in the attempt of the creditors and the depositors to get something.

The Directors are good for every dollar of the loss if it is held by the Courts that George Alexander, as President, had their sanction to sign the bank's name to the thousands of dollars' worth of notes he gave for borrowed funds and to the loans he made to individuals without proper security.

The Directors are denying that they gave any such sanction or that they had any knowledge of many of Alexander's largest transactions. The stock of the bank was held to the extent of 51 per cent. by Alexander and the members of his family.

EVERYDAY LIFE IN VERA CRUZ

Strange Scenes Continually Witnessed.

NIGHT INCIDENTS OF PLAZA

Peon Carries In His Eyes Look Of Mongrel Who Expect Kick.

A VIVID DESCRIPTION GIVEN

(Fred L. Boat in Louisville Herald)
Vera Cruz, Mex., May 23.—Night on the plaza.

Vera Cruz is trying to pretend that it is enjoying itself.

On two sides of the square hotels in front of which we drink lemonade. The waiters who love us with their lips and hate us in their hearts, are prostrated with grief because there is no ice. Being members of a stern and heroic race, we continue to drink the warm, sickish stuff.

On a third side of the plaza the cathedral. One of its bells is silent—shattered by a cannon shot from the fleet when the city fell. In the tower four sentries stand, looking down into the plaza. A fifth man flashes messages to the fleet and the outposts. All around the signal lights are flashing. Shafts of light from the searchlights streak the sky.

The fourth side of the plaza is the Constitución where troops are quartered.—The provo-guard brings in peons who are drunken on vino. They think they are going to die.

To-morrow, sober, they will be released and fed. Already they are learning that to be arrested by the Americans is not half bad.

In the stand in the middle of the plaza a soldier band is playing. When it strikes up "The Star-Spangled Banner," we rise, our soldiers and officers very stiff and erect. An American planter who has lived in Mexico twenty years, says: "By—, that listens good!"

But the Mexicans sit scowling at their little tables and a group of British naval officers from the Essex remain seated. No discourtesy is meant. To stand at such a time might be interpreted as "taking sides."

Not so a group of French marines in top-heavy white helmets. They rise to their feet and bare their heads. They are short, stocky men, and they look efficient, for all their ill-fitting clothes; but on their sweating faces is an almost sickly pallor that contrasts curiously with the ruddy complexion of the Americans.

The band strikes up a lively ragtime tune. Two soldiers, khaki-clad, slither over the flagged floor of the plaza. A rifle is slung from the shoulder of one of them.

Even the Mexicans are compelled to smile glumly at their antics.

Very difficult to place are the women at the tables. A few are wives of officers. Others are expatriates. Even the young among them seem old. They are over-dressed. Their faces are strained. Perhaps it's the heat. One imagines they are tired, and that their gaiety is artificial and forced.

The crowds at the tables thin. The women have gone to bed to toss through sleepless hours in stifling rooms. For in Mexico no woman of virtue may go abroad without escort at any hour, and not at all after 9 o'clock.

Come then, pretty and smiling señoritas of the underworld. Come, too, slinking from alleys, the creatures of the Mexican night, to search for scraps among the tables and in the gutters. Gaunt they are, and very timid.

Taps has long since sounded. The nannies in the plaza no longer chatter. All around the lights are twinkling from hill and ship and steeple.

They are telling the story of the night—that there is order in the city, and the federals are keeping a respectful distance from the outposts—and all's well!

And so, finally, we go to our beds.

I was having breakfast on the sidewalk of the plaza when a boy stole a roll from my plate. He expected instant death. So when I spared his life and let him eat the roll he explained to me in dumb show that his father, too, was hungry.

The waiter, whose English was better than my Spanish, would have driven him away.

"Why are they hungry?" I asked.
They were prisoners, señor," the waiter said. "The sailors of the Americanos came and released them from over yonder."

"Over yonder" was the bull pen behind the Constitución. It can be seen from the plaza. A huge building, like a public market place, but barred.

"Why were they prisoners?"
With many gestures and shrugs the waiter told the story.

It was Diaz who put them there—them and many others. They were peons and very poor. The master told them to fight the soldiers of Diaz. So they fought. They did not know why they fought, save that the master told them to.

Madero ousted Diaz. Still lingered the father and son in the bull pen. They were forgotten.

Huerta came into power. Still they stayed in the bull pen. They stretched their skinny claws through the bars, begging food. They lost all track of time. Maybe it was two years, maybe three or four.

Often prisoners died. The corpses lay untouched for days, rotting in the heat.

When the Americanos came and opened the doors, the prisoners thought they were some new and strange kind of Mexican rebels and that they would be immediately slain.

Instead the doors were open and they were given food and let go.

They could not understand it. They can't now.

"Ask them where they came from and why they don't go home."

They had worked for the master. It was far away. How should they know how far? Where? They did not know.

Had the man a wife, the boy a mother? Si, señor. Alive or dead? How could they tell?

Did they know what the Americanos were doing in Vera Cruz? Nu, señor.

I gave them twenty cents Mex. to pose for a picture, and they called down the blessing of the particular Virgin of the district whence they came.

There was the look in their eyes that you see in the eyes of a mongrel who expects a kick and receives a care.

TONE OF VOICE BROUGHT SAD MEMORY OF HOME

Some time since a pensive-looking citizen was seated in a cafe when a man entered, leaving the door wide open. Instantly the pensive party became violently agitated.

"Shut the door, you chump!" he loudly exclaimed. "Where were you raised—in a barn?"

The other quietly closed the door, and then, taking a seat at a near-by table, he buried his head in his arms and began to sob. Naturally, this touched the heart of the pensive one.

"My friend," said he, going over to the sobby citizen. "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings. I merely wanted you to close the door."

"I am not crying because you hurt my feelings," was the sobby rejoinder. "As you suggested, I was raised in a barn, and every time I hear a mule bray, I get homesick."

Two Generals Slain.

Juarez, Mex., May 21.—Two Federal Generals, Miguel Alvarez and Ignacio Munoz were killed in the battle of Paredon and two other Generals and many Federal officers were executed by the Constitutionalists after the battle, according to a copy of an official telegram from Gen. Francisco Villa to Gen. Carranza received here to-day. The official report says:

"It is known that Gens. Miguel Alvarez and Ignacio Munoz fell in the combat. Gen. Osorno and a good number of Federal officials were executed."

Regarding the fight at Zertuche, the report says in part:

"There was captured also a General and thirty-two officials who composed his staff. All were executed immediately."

Estacion, Amargos, Mex., May 20. (via El Paso, Tex., May 21.)—Gen. Francisco Villa, leading 4,000 Constitutional troops, won the first important engagement of the Saltillo campaign, May 17, when at Paredon he defeated 4,500 Federals retreating from Monclova.

The Federal troops were decisively beaten. Not only did Gen. Villa administer a defeat, but he thus prevented the arrival of reinforcements at Saltillo which would have added materially to the defensive force of the objective point of the campaign. He also captured supplies which would have been of value to the garrison of Saltillo.

The Constitutionalists lost sixteen killed and twenty-nine wounded. The Federal casualties were twenty-nine killed and more than eighty wounded. The Constitutionalists captured 900 prisoners, nine pieces of artillery, 1,000,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, a large quantity of artillery ammunition and a large supply of provisions, in addition to five troop trains, which carried the Huerta soldiers.

The Federal garrison of Monclova, numbering 4,500, had evacuated that town May 15 in five troop trains on the approach of Gen. Francisco Murguia, Constitutional commander at Piedras Negras, who was advancing from the south to attack.

Washington, May 23.—Senator John W. Kern, majority leader of the Senate, expresses the opinion that the passage in the upper House of the measure repealing the free tolls provision is now so certain that there need no longer be any doubt of this. Senator Thomas P. Gore, who is making a canvass of the delegates to the Baltimore convention, to ascertain their views relative to the inclusion in the platform of the free tolls provision, has heard from 867 delegates, and 702 of these have expressed themselves as opposed to the free tolls plank.

The heavy artillery on the side of those opposed to the adoption by the Senate of the repeal measure has been discharged, and the lines back of the administration have not wavered to any appreciable extent.

JUST WHY WE OPPOSE POCKETS FOR WOMEN

1. Because pockets are not a natural right.

2. Because the great majority of women do not want pockets. If they did, they would have them.

3. Because whenever women have had pockets they have not used them.

4. Because women are expected to carry enough things as it is, without the additional burden of pockets.

5. Because it would make dissension between husband and wife as to whose pockets were to be filled.

6. Because it would destroy man's chivalry toward woman if he did not have to carry all her things in his pockets.

7. Because men are men and women are women. We must not fly in the face of nature.

8. Because pockets have been used by men to carry tobacco, pipes, whiskey flasks, chewing gum and compromising letters. We see no reason to suppose that women would use them more wisely.—[Alice Duer Miller in the New York Tribune.]

THE KISSING-POST AT IMMIGRATION OFFICE

Children grow by nourishment—not overloaded stomachs or rich foods but qualities that are readily converted into life-sustaining blood; too often their dietary powers cannot procure these qualities from ordinary foods which results in weakness, dullness and sickness. If your children are under-size, under-weight, catch cold easily, are languid, backward, pale or frail, give them Scott's Emulsion which is pure medicinal nourishment. It sharpens the appetite, builds healthy flesh, firm muscles and active health. Scott's is growing-food for children. Scott's is alcohol-free substitutes.

A wonderful system rules at this gateway. And smoothly, steadily, all the time the wheels keep rolling.

on, admitting the right ones, deporting the impossible kind, helping the newcomer to find a home—and a family.

"I am going to let you see the immigrants claimed by their friends," said the superintendent, as he guided us through a series of apartments, dormitories, baggage rooms, resting rooms and ticket exchanges. Swiftly he led us to a hallway that was divided into two parts. In one corner the pilgrims waited; in another their families were showing the necessary credentials. Smiling, the superintendent turned toward us.

"Do you see that post at the doorway?" he questioned as we glanced at it. "Some call it the kissing-post. It is there that the long-separated families meet." And then we saw that he spoke the truth. For, while he was talking, an excited Neapolitan in American clothes ran out of the tiny gate. At the foot of the kissing-post his family met him—a young wife and two tiny children. And there they were reunited—at the gateway of our land! The gateway of liberty had become their gate of thanksgiving.—[Christian Herald.]

4. Because women are expected to carry enough things as it is, without the additional burden of pockets.

5. Because it would make dissension between husband and wife as to whose pockets were to be filled.

6. Because it would destroy man's chivalry toward woman if he did not have to carry all her things in his pockets.

7. Because men are men and women are women. We must not fly in the face of nature.

8. Because pockets have been used by men to carry tobacco, pipes, whiskey flasks, chewing gum and compromising letters. We see no reason to suppose that women would use them more wisely.—[Alice Duer Miller in the New York Tribune.]

Two Generals Slain.

Juarez, Mex., May 21.—Two Federal Generals, Miguel Alvarez and Ignacio Munoz were killed in the battle of Paredon and two other Generals and many Federal officers were executed by the Constitutionalists after the battle, according to a copy of an official telegram from Gen. Francisco Villa to Gen. Carranza received here to-day. The official report says:

"It is known that Gens. Miguel Alvarez and Ignacio Munoz fell in the combat. Gen. Osorno and a good number of Federal officials were executed."

Regarding the fight at Zertuche, the report says in part:

THE KISSING-POST AT IMMIGRATION OFFICE

Children grow by nourishment—not overloaded stomachs or rich foods but qualities that are readily converted into life-sustaining blood; too often their dietary powers cannot procure these qualities from ordinary foods which results in weakness, dullness and sickness.

If your children are under-size, under-weight, catch cold easily, are languid, backward, pale or frail, give them Scott's Emulsion which is pure medicinal nourishment.

It sharpens the appetite, builds healthy flesh, firm muscles and active health. Scott's is growing-food for children. Scott's is alcohol-free substitutes.

COAL MINERS AND OPERATORS

Agree After Weeks Of Disputation.

DETAILS OF UNDERSTANDING

Between Parties As To The Conditions In West
Kentucky Field.

CONCESSIONS ON BOTH SIDES

President L. B. Walker and Commissioner D. Stewart Miller, representing, respectively, District 23, of the Mine Workers, and the Western Kentucky Coal Operators, completed the drafting of the contract to govern the Western Kentucky miners the next two years.

For days the two bodies were deadlocked on Sections 1, 2 and 11. The following were the settlements arrived at on the disputed portions:

Section 1 of the operators' proposition was agreed to by adding to same the following:

"But when an operator starts on the lump-coal basis or on the mine-run basis, he shall not change from that basis during that day."

The whole of this paragraph of Section 1 reads:

"The right of the operator to change from the screened coal to the mine-run basis or from the mine-run basis to the screened-coal basis whenever he deems it necessary or expedient to do so, in both the pick and the machine mines, shall not be questioned, but when an operator starts on a lump-coal basis or on the mine-run basis, he shall not change from that basis during that day."

"In like manner, the right of the operator to change from the pick to the machine basis or from the machine basis to the electric or compressed air-punch machine, or from the electric compressed air-punch machine to the chain-machine basis, or from any machine basis to the pick-mining basis, or to change the type of machine whenever he deems it necessary or expedient to do so, shall not be questioned."

The operators were contending for the right to change at any time, and the clause as given is considered a fair compromise.

In section 2 a slight alteration was made, dividing the room turning price between the lead cutter and helper, and extra compensation for bailing water in rooms and entries was agreed to.

The contention on Section 3 was as to the right of the operators of machine mines to change from paying by the day to by the ton and vice versa. The operators consented to add to their proposition the following:

"It is understood that no machines shall be run by the day except in case of a deficiency, or when a new type of machine, and then only until a tonnage price can be agreed upon."

This made the section satisfactory to both sides, and it was promptly agreed upon.

The deadlock over Section 11 was broken by adopting the operators' section by adding to it so that this clause will read:

"Drivers shall take their mules to and from the stables, and the time in so doing shall not include any part of the day's work, their work beginning when they reach the place at which they receive the empty cars, but in no case shall a driver's time be docked while he is waiting for cars at such point named."

"The harness that is now being brought out at the various mines to the stables shall be taken off and put on the mules by the company."

This is a slight concession over the present agreement, and the operators further conceded a 10 cent advance in wages to the drivers to compensate them for time lost in taking their mules to and from work.

This increase to the drivers of ten cents a day and an increase in day wages of the trappers of 36 cents per day, constitute the only advance in wages given, but all parties express the opinion that the conditions have been greatly improved for the miners.

Briefly, the other changes from the old contract are as follows:

Section 4 now reads:

"Where a man is loading after a machine, he shall be entitled to two rooms.

"Where a man and a boy are loading after a machine and not claiming more than a turn and a half, they shall be entitled to three rooms.

"No miner shall be allowed to load coal out of his second room until the first is cleaned up, unless for some reason it is impossible to do this."

The old section simply provided that, "Where a man or a man and boy are loading after a machine and not claiming more than a turn and a half, they shall be entitled to two or three rooms where practicable."

This led to considerable friction on account of its indefiniteness.

Into Section 4 was incorporated the provision of the mining law as to delivery by the company of timber and rails.

This paragraph uttered by Mrs. Webb expanded into a unique story hinted at above, after a few questions were asked. The railroad bonds were offered for sale in the early seventies. Mrs. Webb and her friends invested. Soon the railroad taxes in Muhlenberg county became excessive. Citizens refused to pay them. Officers threatened to collect the taxes. Sheriffs resigned or refused to accept office. The county government was in chaos. Lands were dirt cheap. Innumerable lawsuits followed. Special collectors were sent out to gather taxes. There was even bloodshed. Many bondholders grew tired of delay and costs of litigation. Compromise was talked. Many bondholders were willing to accept even the smallest amount of cash for their bonds. Finally a systematic effort was made to compromise all bond claims on a basis of 25¢ on the dollar. Mrs. Webb was approached but her prompt answer was, "No, I will not compromise. I made an honest investment. I knew Muhlenberg county was rich in minerals and timber and that the railroad would be a great thing for the county. I think it is, and I shall abide my judgment and have all my principal and interest or nothing."

A few days ago she received every cent of her investment with interest for every dollar of it and for every one of those forty years that she clung to those precious bonds the interest paid her is almost four times what the original principal was.

Provisions for enforcing the "square turn" clause of the contract are agreed to, and when a turn is seven days behind, it must be squared in three days.

An amendment to Section 9 compels a company to settle with any miner on his leaving its employ on receipt of a five-days' notice of such intention to leave.

In Section 12, by an addition, the company repairs all miners' tools except the rehandling of picks and shovels.

The other sections are substantially the same.

THE MINERS VOTE TO ACCEPT SETTLEMENT

Central City, Ky., May 20.—Delegates from over District No. 23, U. M. W. of A. to the number of 1,000 assembled in Central City to decide whether or not the agreement made by their safe committee with the operators would be accepted by them. The entire day was spent in going over the various points on which the miners and operators had some trouble settling and for a time it seemed as though the matter would have to be put up to a referendum vote of each man in the District, but after strong talks by Pres. L. B. Walker and Board Member George Baker, it was decided best to accept the settlement made and go to work at once.

This is the best news that Central City has had in six months, for there is always more or less uneasiness as settlement time with the miner approaches for fear that a strike might come. This settlement means peaceful, prosperous time for Central City for two years.

IT PROVED FINE INVESTMENT

The Hancock Clarion says:

Mrs. E. L. Webb is now living in her new home on Main street and she has good cause to be pleased with the new Kentucky home in which she is to spend the riper years of her womanhood and which is less than two blocks from that "old Kentucky home" where her brother, Capt. Franklin Lander, still resides, and where she spent her childhood days and young womanhood. There are reminiscences innumerable connected with Hawesville's Main street on which both houses are located, which Mrs. Webb enumerates with pleasure to special friends, but the one circumstance she described a few days ago, after taking possession of her new home, is of more than personal interest as showing her business principles and also a sticking trait of womanly character. It also discloses a bit of commercial history that is of more than passing importance.

"This house was built out of money realized from an investment made in railroad bonds more than forty years ago. I will not tell what road, but it's over in Muhlenberg county."

This paragraph uttered by Mrs. Webb expanded into a unique story hinted at above, after a few questions were asked. The railroad bonds were offered for sale in the early seventies. Mrs. Webb and her friends invested. Soon the railroad taxes in Muhlenberg county became excessive. Citizens refused to pay them. Officers threatened to collect the taxes. Long Harbored Resentment.

Belle Waggener tells of a letter he received in reply to his request that Kansas Democrats write him advising whether or not they wanted him to run for United States Senator. This letter went something like this: "Vote for you for United States Senator? No. You and Jay Gould killed a cow for me 30 years ago, and all I ever got out of it was that the cow wrecked the train."—[Kansas City Journal.]

The June American Magazine.

In the June American Magazine, "Eddie" Collins of the Philadelphia Athletics, whom "Johnny" McGraw calls the greatest baseball player in the world, writes an article entitled "Conie Mack and his Mackmen," in which he describes his experiences in professional baseball under the direction of Connie Mack, the manager of the Athletics and probably the greatest baseball general in the business. The article is full of stories and inside facts about the national game.

In the same issue a former newspaper man, who became a victim of the opium habit and is now a convict in a penitentiary, contributes an account of his dreadful experiences under the title, "A Modern Opium Eater." Dr. Charles K. Taylor, writing under the caption, "Your Boy and His Muscles," presents many valuable suggestions as to the best exercises for young boys. Ray Stannard Baker writes another letter from the field in his new series entitled "Seeing America." A husband, writing "A Husband's Story," describes interesting adventures in the marriage relation, and an undertaker, writing under the title, "The Man Nobody Envies," records some of his experiences.

The American Magazine has been offering prizes for the best letters entitled "What I Think of Capital Punishment" and the three prize-winning letters are published in the June number. The first prize was won by J. Frank Hanly, former Governor of Indiana.

NEWSPAPER POPULARITY CONTESTS NOT LOTTERY

Frankfort, Ky., May 22.—A newspaper popularity contest is not promoting a lottery in the opinion of the Court of Appeals, which certified the law to the Crittenden Circuit Court on appeal of the Commonwealth in the case of S. M. Jenkins, editor of the Crittenden Record-Press, of Marion, indicted for promoting a lottery and acquitted on peremptory instructions by the Judge. Votes were allowed for subscriptions and advertising and the one who received the highest number of votes won. Judge Hannah wrote the opinion.

According to the record one man was given an automobile and the votes for $400 in subscriptions. He cast the votes for his wife, who won the contest. The Commonwealth insisted that this smacked of a lottery, but the Court of Appeals held that it lacked all the elements of chance; the man's wife "had no chance to lose, and the others had no chance to win."

A CHINAMAN'S VIEW OF THE AWFUL OPIUM HABIT

In the June American Magazine appears an article entitled "A Modern Opium Eater," written by a newspaper man, who became a victim of the habit and is now a convict in a penitentiary. In the course of the article the author quotes, as said to him about the power of the habit to hold its victims:

"You no quit. Every man alle-time say he quit. Every man alle-time same you. Smoke one time, smoke two time, smoke tee time, then smoke alle-time. Chinaman, white man, chokquay' (negro) alle-time. No can quit. Bimeby you die you quit. Bimeby maybe you bloke,—no more money, no more friend hollow money, no can stealmoney, maybe you quit one, two days. Bimeby maybe you go jail, no got friend bring you hop, no got money given policeman catchem hop, you quit. You got money, no go jail, you no quit. I heap sabe. Bimeby you see."

AN OBSERVATORY 14,000 FEET UP IN THE AIR

A new astronomical observatory is about to be established on Mont Blanc by the French Academy of Science, before which the plans of the building have been laid by Maurice Hamy, Director of the Paris Observatory.

The first observatory on the mountain was erected by Joseph Vallot at his own expense 25 years ago on the Rocher des Bosses, at an altitude of 4,600 meters (15,084). Two years later M. Jansen, a member of the French Institute, built one 250 meters (820 feet) still higher up, or practically on the summit.

Unfortunately, it was soon found that this building ultimately must be abandoned, owing to the fact that, in the absence of rock support, its foundations were built on snow. Time passed and the observatory be-

We are authorized to announce
HON. BEN JOHNSON.

Of Bardstown, for re-election to Congress from the Fourth Congressional District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

It's regrettable that King George and Mrs. Pankhurst were not also represented in that peace conference at Niagara Falls.

"Wife size" hoes are now selling on the market at very reasonable prices. Looks like almost every husband ought to afford one.

Congress has now been in continuous session nearly fourteen months. But it has been an important session and has accomplished much.

Mr. Moses R. Glenn, a Kentuckian of considerable note, has assumed editorial control of the Dawson Tribune. Mr. Glenn will give the Tribune readers a good paper.

After June 15th reckless automobile speeders in Louisville will go to jail—so it is announced. The price for taking human life in the Falls City (per automobile) remains the same, it is presumed, averaging about $200 per killing.

Regarding that post-office scrap over at Owensboro, Editor Urey Woodson says he "should worry." He has simply bought himself a post-office (the old building) with all fixtures complete, lacking only an occupant. If Urey wants to put some friend in there to "run" the shop, whose business is it?

Col. W. P. Walton, the veteran Kentucky journalist who has been in Florida for some months engaged with his brother in the newspaper business, is coming back to his native State, presumably "no more to roam." Col. Walton is one of the best known and most able writers Kentucky ever had on its press, and it is quite likely he will soon take up some new line of his life work.

Ex-President Taft has recently lost 75 pounds in weight, and Ex-President Roosevelt dispensed with 35 pounds of good Moose meat in the South American jungles. The former lost his on purpose and is exceedingly glad of it, while the latter misses his from no intentional cause of his own and is not especially proud of it. This Elephant and Moose meat will hardly be missed, however, when the political pot gets to boiling good.

There seems to be little chance for the Progressive and Republican wings of the g. o. p. to get together in Kentucky or elsewhere. The main reason seems to be that the Republicans want the Progressives to do too much of the "coming back" business, thus placing the latter in rather a humiliating attitude. Then there are some principles adopted by the two political factions which are much at variance. There will evidently have to be some "laying down" by some adherents before the two factions get together.

Among many strenuous accomplishments it sometimes becomes the duty of an editor to not let his right hand know what his left hand is doing. We do not know whether or not Editor Jim Weir, who owns and edits both the Wild-life Yeoman and the LaCenter Advance, is ambidextrous in the use of his pencil, but anyhow he has a trying proposition on hand. The two above named towns are now in a warm contest over the location of a branch court house for LaCenter, Wickliffe being the county capital. The Advance, of course, must be for the proposition and the Yeoman against it. Ain't that some fix for an editor to be in?

To those of us who have lost a mother—he it recently or years ago, for the vacancy remains ever a vital and touching memory—the impulse to sympathize with one in like position is ever present. In fact it is the one greatest loss to each of the human race. In this connection the press of the entire State—and many other friends—sympathize deeply with Editor J. C. Alcock, of Jefferson, in the recent death of his mother. Mr. Alcock is secretary of the Kentucky Press Association, a man of the noblest character and attainments, and it may comfort him to know that his grief is shared by many whose heartfelt sympathy is with him in his loss.

In the death of Senator Bradley the Republicans of Kentucky have lost their greatest leader for many years past. He was a man of commanding ability and strong personal attachments. He seldom ever forgot the names and faces of those he met outside of his close acquaintances. This trait of itself made him very popular. Having no education of consequence, as education is gauged nowadays, yet by sheer mental ability and force of character he arose to distinction among his people. All his life long he fought the battles of his party and he died in the ranks, faithful and loyal to the end.

HOPKINSVILLE MEN DEFY INSURANCE COMPANIES

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 23.—The Hopkinsville Business Men's Association is back of a movement to organize a local insurance company for mutual protection of property owners in the community.

"We have quit waiting for something to turn up in this insurance situation," said President R. E. Cooper to-day, "and are going to turn something up."

At a meeting held at the H. B. M. A. headquarters speeches indorsing the movement were made by R. E. Cooper, tobacco man; G. E. Gary, of the Forbes Manufacturing Company; A. H. Eckles, banker; Representative John C. Duffy, John H. Bell, merchant; John F. Bible, manager of the Mogul Wagon Works; Dr. T. W. Blakley, president of the Planters Bank & Trust Company, and others. It was the opinion of nearly all the speakers that the Glenn-Greene bill was too drastic, but they were equally as emphatic that the old-line insurance companies, by their alleged arbitrary conduct in withdrawing from the State before the law was effective and in refusing to accept any reasonable compromise, had forfeited all right to sympathy or support.

THE TITANIC LOSERS WILL RECOVER NOTHING

Washington, May 25.—The Supreme Court to-day annulled the Commerce Commission's orders in the Tapline cases.

Under the decision of the Court practically nothing will be recovered by those who lost relatives or baggage in the Titanic disaster when that great ocean liner sank. The Court held that the liability of the Titanic's owners for damages is restricted to salvage recovered, freight and passage money, amounting to $91,000. More than $13,000,000 worth of claims were filed against the Titanic owners.

JOHN D. DOUBLES ARMED GUARD ABOUT HIS HOUSEElaborate Electric Light Alarm and Detector System—Fierce Dog Added.

The New York World says: John D. Rockefeller has doubled his guards, from four to eight, about his home at Poquontico Hills and installed a system of electric lights upon the grounds which he can flash by the touch of a button at the head of his bed.

Until the I. W. W. demonstrations at the Standard Oil offices and threats of trouble makers to visit him on his estate, Mr. Rockefeller was content with four guards, all negroes, who, armed with rifles, began patrolling at 6 o'clock, every evening and continued on watch twelve hours.

When Mr. Rockefeller wanted to satisfy himself that he was properly guarded he would slip from bed, open a window and call out:

"Are you there?" The negroes would answer that they were on the job and Mr. Rockefeller would retire. If the oil millionaire happened to have a sleepless night, the guards were likely to hear from him at frequent intervals and they were vigilant in consequence.

While doubling his armed guards, Mr. Rockefeller added a large fierce dog to keep the men company. This animal roams about the grounds, ready to do business with any trespasser who happens along after nightfall. Still Mr. Rockefeller was not satisfied and he put his inventive genius to work and arranged a set of signals by which any one of the eight negroes might be caught off watch at any minute of the night.

When the button at the head of Mr. Rockefeller's bed is touched, red, white and blue lights flash in the rear, front and on both sides of the big house.

Eight buttons are arranged about the house, and the instant these lights flash, the negro next to a button must press it, and there comes a click above the bed, showing every man is awake and watching.

There are also time clocks, which must be watched as well as the red, white and blue flashes.

A similar system will be installed about the home of John D. Jr. This house is now undergoing repairs and he and his wife and children are staying with the elder Mr. Rockefeller.

MAN LOOKING FOR LOST HOUSE AND LOT

Leitchfield, Ky., May 24.—A man calling himself C. J. Johnson arrived here recently to look up a house and lot of which he claimed to be the owner. He says that his home is in St. Augustine, Fla., where a short time ago, he claims, he exchanged a five-acre truck farm and a house and lot in St. Augustine, worth more than $1,000, for a house and lot in the business district of this city. On examination it was found that the lot he secured is fifty by one hundred feet and is located in the negro settlement, and is worth about $50.

ANOTHER OIL REPORT FROM MACEO SECTION

The Owensboro Messenger says: The "oil fever" is again rampant at Maceo. Yesterday scores of oil men from various parts of the country visited the far mo of W. W. Rowland, living just a few miles from Maceo, and after examining the oil which was struck late Thursday night, the experts unanimously agreed that the territory in and around Maceo would soon be one of the best oil fields in the country. Although every effort possible has been made to keep the fact quiet that oil has been struck on the farm of W. W. Rowland, it leaked out yesterday that shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday night the drillers, who have kept up their labors day and night for the last few months, struck a rich vein of oil. Friday and Saturday oil men who have been at work in the Sebree and other neighborhoods, came to Owensboro and hastened to Maceo. The work of drilling is now being eagerly pushed forward and the oil men say that Maceo is sure to become one of the richest oil centers in this section of the country. The oil was struck at an approximate depth of 1,970 feet.

YOUTH WAS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE FOR MURDER

Covington, Ky., May 23.—Louis Moorehead, 17, was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment in the Kentucky State penitentiary by a jury in the Criminal Division of the Kenton County Court tonight. Moorehead was on trial for the murder of J. L. Litten, an aged Tennesseean, who was employed as a cook at a camp of the Q. & C. railroad at Erlanger, Ky., where the murder was committed on April 15. Robbery was the motive.

The murder stirred the community and the trial attracted a great deal of attention. Moorehead was unmoved as the verdict was read. His attorney, Maurice Galvin, pleaded that the boy be not sent to the electric chair.

Henry Landrum, 18, will be tried on a similar charge on June 2, it being alleged he was an accomplice in the murder.

ROOSTERS SACRIFICED IN WARREN COUNTY

Bowling Green, Ky., May 24.—"Rooster Day" was extensively observed in Warren county yesterday. During the day hundreds of roosters were received at the local produce houses, Sam Nahm & Company and Hulen, Toops & Company, both receiving hundreds of the fowls from farmers throughout the county. Double prices were paid for the birds yesterday. With this incentive the farmers of the county busied themselves in roosters.

KENTUCKY'S EXHIBIT AT PANAMA-PACIFIC SHOW

Frankfort, Ky., May 21.—State Senator Starling Marshall, of Henderson, Representative Harry Meyers, of Covington, and former Representative John Holland, of Shively, members of the State commission to the Panama-Pacific Exposition, conferred with Gov. McCrory Wednesday in regard to plans for raising the money for the Kentucky exhibit, and will meet again next Tuesday, after which Chairman Holland said the plans will be finally adopted and made public.

Woman's Big Catch.

Harrodsburg, Ky., May 23.—Mrs. Mary Gibbons, the crack woman fisherman, who lives at the junction of Jessamine creek and Kentucky river, near High Bridge, ran her trot line out in the river yesterday, and besides catching numerous small fish, she captured a fifty-two-pound catfish. Oldtimers say it is the biggest fish of the kind ever caught in that section of Kentucky river.

AT HARTFORD COLLEGE

The commencement exercises of Hartford College are occurring this week. On Monday night there was a piano recital by the pupils of Miss Margaret Nall's class in music. Last night the pupils of the first, second and third grades presented "Com-these entertainments occurred at the new college building, as will the one to-night, given by the pupils of the fifth-sixth, seventh and eighth grades, entitled "Uncle Sam's Council."

On Thursday and Friday evenings, owing to lack of stage equipment at the College, the scene will be shifted to Dr. Bean's Opera House. To-morrow evening the sophomores will present "At the End of the Rainbow," a college comedy in three acts. Friday evening the junior class will give "The Hoodoo," a three-act comedy.

A small admission fee will be charged for the last two entertainments. Bean's orchestra will furnish music each evening. The scholarship medal will be presented Friday evening.

HARTFORD YOUNG MAN
HIGHLY COMPLIMENTED

In last Thursday's issue of The Herald, published at Lexington, Ky., in the interest of the University of Kentucky, appears the following very pleasing article concerning a Hartford boy:

From the town of Hartford, Ky.,
came four years ago, McHenry Holbrook, to take up the life of a student in the Blue Grass country. His first stop was in the city of Winchester, Kentucky Wesleyan; here he stayed two years. Then he came on to State, and this year finds him one of the leaders of the Senior class.

McHenry's inclinations tended toward classical study, with a strong liking for the law. He realized the value of thorough training in the College of Arts and has wisely followed out that idea before attempting the more complex problems of the study of things legal. He will return to State to complete his course in law.

While here he has led an active life. Both in the classroom and on the campus, he has found work to be done, and he has never neglected his share. He is active in the Henry Clay Law Society and a valuable ad-junctor of this year's Annual staff. His work as a student has been uniformly excellent.

Tis a pleasure to note the ease and grace with which some students mingle with their friends, under all circumstances, in a natural and unaffected manner. Such is the case of McHenry Holbrook; "at home" in any gathering, be it intellectual, social or what not; an interesting talker and an attentive listener.

He is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity and also of the lately installed Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity. It is fortunate for the students that he is to return to finish his studies. A man of whom we are now proud and who will enhance our pleasure here again, and later go out as an accomplished representative of our University.

Will Ship Stock.

Turner & Bell will ship stock
from Hartford next Saturday, April 30. They will pay market price for stock that day.

MINISTER'S REPLY TO OPEN LETTER

Of U. M. W. Representative Is Good.

CHRISTIANITY IS THE REMEDY

If Put Properly Into Effect, For Existing Industrial Evils.

TALKS SENSIBLY ON SUBJECT

The Louisville Herald says:
 Reply to the open letter from W. O. Smith, of Central City, international representative of the United Mine Workers of America, published in the Herald recently, in which Mr. Smith raises the question of moral responsibility for the conditions in Colorado, has been made by two Louisville ministers.

In the letter from Mr. Smith the question is asked whether John D. Rockefeller can evade personal responsibility, although professing to Christianity, for conditions existing in Colorado.

The first letter is from the Rev. Edward S. Doan, rector of St. George's Episcopal church. It is as follows:

"Louisville, Ky., May 5, 1914.
 To the Editor of The Herald, Louisville, Ky., My Dear Sir:—In Sunday's issue of the Herald, W. O. Smith, international representative of the United Mine Workers of America, challenges ministers of the gospel to answer three questions which I will restate and answer separately in few words.

"The first question is, 'Can a man who owns stock in a corporation that enslaves and robs its employees escape personal responsibility for the crime?'

"My answer is, No!

"The second question is, 'Can a man who owns stock in a corporation that hires thugs to murder men, women and children, acquit himself of wrongdoing by placing the management of his business affairs in the hands of other men?'

"My answer is, No!

"The third question is, 'Is there such a thing as a sin of omission, and if so, is he who refuses to prevent murder when he has the power to do so, not guilty of transgressing the laws of God?'

"To the two questions involved here I would say, Yes.

"Then the statement follows that 'ten million working men in the United States are asking these same questions.' If that is so, then these questions should be answered with courage.

"Let me here say to Mr. Smith and to all others who are in his state of mind, that Christianity is the great remedy for all these great social problems. The trouble with a whole lot of so-called church people to-day is that they care more about getting the rich man's dollar than they do for the getting of Christ into social conditions.

"In our political and governmen-

COUGH TWO YEARS OLDYields to Vinol. Read Why.

Strong vigorous men and women hardly ever catch cold; it's only when the system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs get a foothold.

Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cold is to build up your run down condition again?

Mrs. D. A. McGee of Waycross, Ga., says: "I had a chronic cold and cough which kept me awake nights for two years and I felt tired all the time. Vinol cured my cold and I feel stronger in every way."

The reason Vinol is so efficacious in such cases is because it contains in a delicious concentrated form all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood building iron added.

Chronic coughs and colds yield to Vinol because it builds up the weakened, run-down system.

You can get your money back any time if Vinol does not do all we say.

P. S.—For itching, burning skin try our Saxo Salve. We guarantee it. James H. Williams, Druggist, Hartford, Ky.

tal life of the past generation we have laid more stress and importance upon property than we have upon persons. We have made a few men immensely rich and a great many men practically poor. We are coming to the day, now, when one's religion is not considered from the standpoint of the size of his purse, but from the standpoint of the size of his heart and sympathies for struggling and suffering humanity.

"We are learning that society is to blame for the existence of many crimes.

"We are learning that Dives cannot fare sumptuously and be a good entertainer without committing the sin of omitting to do certain things which he has no business to be ignorant of, in his social and economic relations. We need not advocate evil for evil in order to meet the problems of distress and injustice, but we do need to put our Christianity into actual operation or else cease to parade as though we were the very elect.

"I have no sympathy for the persons who are suffering from an exaggerated ego and who get into the lime-light of a passing sensation and who would even commit crime and surround it with a halo in order to check an already haloed crime now being committed by many of our rich men in the churches to-day who have no social conscience and who care more for dollars and dividends than they do for men, women and children.

"I would tell Mr. Smith, and all of his kind, to stand to and abide by the real principles of Christianity, and fight out the battle within the churches.

"The vested interests and the hypocritical churchmen of the Master's day put Him to death on the cross. That's what many of them would do to-day with His Christianity. The day is at hand for the people of the country, the millions of toilers in every avenue of life, to put the great principles of the Golden Rule and neighborliness into a workable political platform that will make us all free men indeed.

"Such principles in operation will give to the wage-earner his just dues. That is what he wants. He does not want condescending charity, but uplifting justice. Great corporations must have souls or else be put out of business as a menace to humanity.

"We have yet to learn that ballots are often more effective than bullets in settling some problems. We must learn that there are some big men who have little money, and some little men who have much.

"Yours for humanity,
"EDW. S. DOAN."

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN GROWING IN THE SOUTH

In Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, California, Washington, Oregon, Kansas, Arizona and Alaska women have full suffrage. In Illinois women vote upon practically all questions, except for members of the State Legislature. This means that in the next Presidential election nearly four millions of women will be enabled to voice their preference for the President of the United States, and may be a determining party factor.

The movement to give the vote to Southern women is becoming very active and it would be a fine tribute to the intelligence and worth of our Southern womanhood to place them on a political plane where their opinions and judgment could be voiced in the State. The South needs the counsel and help of its women, and votes for women should be the chivalrous aim of every true Southern man.

Biliousness and Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepson preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been to-day had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets.

The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by all dealers.

FAMILY WORK 23 YEARS TO RETURN LOST MONEY

Minneapolis, Minn., May 23.—A story of years of work and privation by the children of a Minneapolis man to carry out a father's dying request and free a family conscience and the partial solution of the disappearance of a pocketbook on a street here twenty-three years ago, came to light to-day. Mrs. E. A. Colliton received through the police and an unknown agent $900, the amount she lost in 1891.

A stranger appeared at the police station a few days ago and told of his desire to pay an old debt, asking that the police help identify the woman. This was done, and a lawyer sent for, who, to-day acted as Mrs. Colliton's agent in receiving the money.

The agent has kept himself and his clients unknown. All that he will tell is that the money came into the family's hands through unfair means, and that they have struggled for years to pay off the debt. The cash is mostly in $1 bills, and many of them are aged and worn.

The agent admitted to-day that the father of the people obtained the money and that he told of it on his deathbed a short time later, asking that it be paid. Mrs. Colliton endeavored to return the money to the people, believing they needed it, but the offer was flatly refused.

A note sent with the money said: "We are happier to-day than we have been in twenty-three years." Mrs. Colliton says she lost the purse and money while walking on the street on January 17, 1891.

A SHOCKING CUSTOM PRACTICED IN KOREA

Mrs. J. R. Moore, writing from Chon Chun, Korea, says: Last night the death angel came to the home of Mr. Sin, and to-day the poor man was buried. He left a wife, a baby and five measures of barley—nothing else, I am told. Our Christians invited the widow to come and spend the night with them, not merely because she was lonely, but to protect her from anyone who might come by force and take her away to become the wife, perhaps the second one, for someone else.

She has already been consulted on the subject and expressed a desire to live the remainder of her days in widowhood. If she were to be taken it would be no violation of Korean custom, for often when a young, or even middle-aged woman is left a widow, a company of men go, usually at night I believe, and by force take the widow to become the wife of some other man. It may be one whom she has never seen before.

Better Than Coals.

A colored woman went to the pastor of her church recently to complain of the conduct of her husband, who, she said, was a trifling, worthless, low-down nigger. After listening to a long recital of the specific delinquencies of her neglectful spouse and her efforts to correct them, the minister said: "Have you ever tried heaping coals of fire upon his head?"

"No," was the reply, "but I done tried hot water."—[National Monthly] vs.

A. L. Stevens, &c., Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Ohio Circuit Court, rendered at the April term, 1914, in the above cause for the sum of $2,000, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum from the 1st day of September, 1913, until paid, and the further sum of $148.40, with like interest from 1st day of July, 1912, and the further sum of $225.17 with like interest from the 29th day of March, 1913, and $94.70 costs herein, I will offer for sale by public auction at the court house door in Hartford, on Monday, the 1st day of June, 1914, about 1 o'clock p.m., upon a credit of six months, the following described property, to-wit:

All the standing timber now located on the 385 acre tract of land upon which said Stevens resides be sold; said land upon which said timber stands is bounded and described as follows:

Bounded on the North by Rough river and the James King land; on the East by Rough river and W. N. Stevens land; on the South by Henry Armentd land, and on the West by the H. P. Taylor and James King land. The land herein described was conveyed to A. L. L. M. and W. N. Stevens by W. P. Maxwell on the 11th day of October, 1887, as shown by deed of record in the Ohio County Clerk's office, Deed Book 7, page 488. And the interest of said L. M. Stevens was conveyed to A. L. Stevens on the 11th day of May, 1905, as shown by deed of record in the Ohio County Clerk's office, Deed Book 31, page 69.

The above mentioned timber will be sold to pay the debt of Bank of Hartford and the debt of Clemens Reitz Sons Co. At the same time and place the following land will be sold, viz:

The following described land situated, lying and being in Ohio county, Kentucky, on the waters of Rough river and bounded and described as follows:

One tract conveyed to Daniel Parks by Geo. Madison by deed of record in the Ohio County Court Clerk's office in Deed Book "F" page 388.

Another tract conveyed by S. J. Hawkins and wife to Peter Parks by deed of record in said office in Deed Book "F", page 386, which was willed by Peter Parks to Daniel Parks aforesaid by will of record in said office.

Another tract conveyed to Daniel Parks by Charles A. Alexander by deed of record in Deed Book "G", page 84, in said office, said three tracts containing together 430 acres more or less.

Same land conveyed to W. P. Maxwell by deed of record in Deed Book 3, page 423, Ohio County Court Clerk's office by A. L. Morton and wife, and which land was conveyed by W. P. Maxwell, unmarried, to Mrs. L. M. Stevens, A. L. Stevens and W. N. Stevens on October 11, 1887, by deed of record in Deed Book No. 7, page 488, Ohio County Court Clerk's office. And same land conveyed by Mrs. L. M. Stevens and her husband to A. L. Stevens and W. N. Stevens on May 11, 1905, which deed is of record in Deed Book 31, page 182, Ohio County Court Clerk's office.

However there is excepted from the above boundaries of land the following: Beginning at a sugar tree and beech on the bank of Rough creek, corner to Mrs. Yeiser's farm; thence S. 34 W. 207 poles to the corner of the Armentd farm in Mrs. Yeiser's line; thence S. 72 W. 40 poles to a stone in Armentd's line; thence N. 105 feet to a stone; thence S. to the railroad line 210 feet; thence with the railroad line 105 feet to the beginning, containing one-half of an acre and lying and being situated in Ohio county, Kentucky, together with the improvements thereon.

A tract containing 17 acres, more or less, and joining the above tract separated from it only by the said Beaver Dam and Rosine road, and bounded on the North by said road, and on the East by the lands of J. B. Monroe, and on the South by the lands of

J. B. Monroe, and containing 17 acres, more or less, or sufficient to produce the sums of money ordered to be made.

The purchaser will be required to execute bond with approved security immediately after sale.

Child Cross? Feverish? Sick?

A cross, peevish, listless child, with coated tongue, pale, doesn't sleep; eats sometimes very little, then again ravenously; stomach sour; breath fetid; pains in stomach, with diarrhea; grinds teeth while asleep, and starts up with terror—all suggest a Worm Killer—something that expels worms, and almost every child has them. Kickapoo Worm Killer is needed. Get a box to-day. Start at once. You won't have to coax, as Kickapoo Worm Killer is a candy confection. CONSIDER THE SKUNK—
REALLY OF MUCH VALUE

In rural sections there is no animal that has always been more heartily despised than the skunk. Yet it is being discovered that he has an economic value so great that it must ultimately outweigh every antipathy against him.

The Department of Agriculture says the common white grub costs the farmers of the country $12,000,000 a year. "Jimmy" Skunk thinks these grubs a delicious morsel and hunts them industriously. Also the beetle of which the grub is the larva is to him a bonne bouche and he always has room for one more. As near as can be approximated rodents and insects cost the country $1,400,000,000 a year. "Jimmy" hunts meadow mice, grasshoppers, beetles and earthworms, all of which are crop destroyers. His otherwise unsavory record should be forgiven, even if it cannot be forgotten, on account of his assistance in saving the crops.

But this is not all. "Jimmy" wears a beautiful black coat. Dame Fashion has seen and admired it, but he is of too lowly origin to be admitted to polite circles. However, other people have pedigrees, ancestors and coats-of-arms manufactured for them, so why not he? Trade has already arranged that trifling matter, and under the name of black marten and Alaska sable he is taken into good society. The demand for this heavy, fine texture fur is now running ahead of the supply, and, as the animals can be raised as easily as house cats, here is a new branch of livestock farming that is one of the probabilities of the near future.—[Wall Street Journal.]

BECKER FOUND GUILTY FOR THE SECOND TIMEJury Says He Must Go to Electric Chair For Rosenthal Murder.

New York, May 22.—Twelve men decided to-day for a second time, that Charles Becker was the arch conspirator responsible for the Rosenthal murder, which nearly two years ago awoke New York to a realization of corruption in the police department and opened a new era of police reform.

Only a pardon or interference by the Court of Appeals can save him from following to the electric chair the four gunmen who shot Herman Rosenthal, gambler, early on the morning of July 16, 1912.

The jury decided to-day the gunmen were Becker's agents.

When the jury entered the room Foreman F. Meridith Blagden was in tears. After Becker had been brought in, Clerk Penny requested the jury to arise. When Blagden was asked whether a verdict had been reached, he brushed away his tears and answered:

"We have. We find the defendant guilty as charged."

Becker, his hands grasping the rail in front of him, paled as the foreman spoke, and swayed for a moment as if about to swoon, but immediately straightened and remained rigid while each juror verified the verdict.

Court officers and reporters were the only ones present besides the judge, defendant and lawyers. The news of the verdict was carried to Mrs. Becker in the Sheriff's office nearby.

Becker's counsel asked for, and received one week, in which to make motions. Becker was remanded to the Tombs until May 29. He was taken from the courtroom to his cell.

As the details of what happened in the jury room developed late to-night it appeared that five ballots were taken to decide Becker's fate. The fifth was unanimous.

RALPH.

May 23.—Farmers here are very busy planting corn and preparing ground for a small tobacco crop.

The spring school closed here, Thursday, May 14. It was taught by Mr. Lonnie Owen.

Sunday School is progressing nicely at this place with Mr. T. L. Ralph Superintendent. Mr. Devert Moseley Assistant Superintendent, and Miss Leathel Patton, Secretary.

Mrs. H. W. Ralph and children and Miss Lena Barnett visited friends and relatives in Evansville, Ind., a few days recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ralph visited friends in Hartford a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel Moseley and family, of near Dundee, visited Mr. John Westerfield and family Sunday.

Mr. D. P. Moseley, of near Dundee, visited his sister, Mrs. J. M. Ralph, Sunday.

Miss Lora Westerfield visited Miss Pruda Cambron, of Tanglewood, Sunday.

Messrs. J. L. Patton, T. L. Ralph, H. W. Ralph and L. A. Ralph went to Hartford Monday on business.

Mr. Pete Kelley, of Whitesville, was here in his automobile Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Ralph and children visited Mr. Ralph's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor, of Adaburg, Sunday.

HOPEWELL.

May 25.—Mrs. Jim Ashby, of West Providence, after a week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Stum, returned home Friday.

Mrs. Will Chinn and baby are on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Stum, of Rockport, spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Billy Johnson.

Miss Annie Lee Taylor, of Hartford, spent Sunday night with Miss Margaret Taylor.

Mr. Alford Bennett and Mrs. Jim Polk Brown, of White County, Ill.; Mrs. Florence Henry, of Central City; Mr. Will Bennett and Mrs. Robert James, of Rockport, are all with their mother, Mrs. Fanny Bennett, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Elbert Kirtley, on the old place here. Mrs. Bennett has been very sick, but is convalescent.

Mrs. J. R. Shull has been very sick but is improving.

Most of our neighbors are done planting. The ground is in the best fix we ever had it. Wheat is good, but grass and oats are needing rain. Some are sowing peas and others are fixing to sow.

DUNDEE.

May 25.—Some of the farmers have quit breaking their bottom ground until it rains.

Oats are looking bad on account of dry weather.

Several fine milch cows have been dying around here of late. H. C. Acton lost a fine Jersey and also Tom Whitehouse and John and Will Muffet lost one each. Cows are very high, selling at from $50 to $75.

James Webster has a mare that has been worth quite a sum to him as a brood mare. She was 22 years old the 11th of May and on that day foaled her 18th colt. She is still very young, a 4-year-old. Who can beat her?

Old Uncle Henry Thomas died at his home at Narrows Sunday night, of old age. He was one of the oldest men of this county—about 80 years—and one of Ohio county's best and most respected citizens.

John Henry Wright, son of John W. Wright, died near here Friday. John was a fine man. He was 41 years old and never married—always lived with his father. His mother died several years ago. He was buried Saturday evening at the family burying ground near his home. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Vanhooy.

James Magan is going to build a two-story blacksmith shop where his old one now stands.

S. J. Weller has been appointed postmaster here and will take charge of the office in a day or two. His wife will act as postmistress and assistant. They are both well qualified for the place.

John Cambron, who lives near Beech Valley, lost his new house and most of its contents by fire a few days ago. Cause was a bad flue.

OLATON.

May 25.—Miss Monta Belle McDaniel returned home Saturday from Elizabethtown, where she has been in school for the past four months.

Mr. G. W. Daniel went to Owensboro Tuesday, returning Wednesday.

William Keith is still very ill.

Mrs. Thomas Sanders is improving.

Mr. C. D. Bean will visit his daughter, Mrs. Eliza Bean, Louisville, this week, for a few days.

The two Sunday Schools here are increasing in attendance.

Mrs. Mary Murch Gentry, who has been visiting at E. M. Rowes, Olaton, returned Sunday to her home near Friedaland. Mrs. Gentry has been in bad health for a long time, but seems to be improving.

BENNETT'S.

May 25.—Bro. Jenkins, of Owensboro, who is on the Concord circuit, preached at Hamlin Chapel Sunday afternoon.

It has been some time since we have had preaching at this place and must say we were glad and appreciated it.

Miss Edna Black has returned from Frankfort, where she has been visiting her uncle, Mr. G. B. Likens, two weeks past.

Prof. Malcom Martin, wife and child, of Sulphur Springs, attended church at Hamlin Chapel Sunday.

THE OHIO COUNTY FARMERS' MUTUAL TELEPHONE CO. (Incorporated)

Is a farmers' telephone system and furnishes a complete system whereby farmers can keep posted as to pools and prices on farm products in neighborhoods of this (Ohio) and adjoining counties, though it is just as necessary for the business and professional man to use it, also, as they cannot afford to be out of touch with the man on the farm, and they have shown their sympathy with the farmers organization by patronizing and becoming a part of this great system with exchanges at the following points in Ohio county:

Hartford, (Main office, Beaver Dam), McHenry, Centertown, Rockport, Prentiss, Baizetown, Neafus, Horse Branch, Dundee, Narrows and Pattiesville, and an exchange at Paradise, Muhlenberg county. We also connect with the following Home Telephone Co.'s: Rochester and Morgantown, Butler county; Yeaman and Short Creek, Grayson county, with whom we exchange service.

With a telephone in this system you have the privilege of and access to no less than two thousand subscribers for a very small monthly fee.

You cannot afford to do without it in your office, home or business house. For particulars call or write

GREAT FRUIT CROP IS PROMISED THIS YEARProspects for Large Yield Are the Best Within the Past Decade.

Washington, May 25.—General prospects for a large yield of fruit of all kinds, with the possible exception of peaches, have not been equalled at any time within the past decade, save in 1912, according to the report of the United States Chamber of Commerce's Committee on Statistics and Standards on the condition of fruit as of May 2 last.

The report deals with all fruits of commercial importance, including apples, peaches, pears, plums, prunes, grapes, oranges, lemons, grapefruit.

The committee reports that more or less damage has occurred in nearly all sections to fruits, but that, save in the case of peaches, it is not a matter of much moment. Severe cold snaps in the early spring caused considerable damage to peaches in many States. Oklahoma, Arkansas and Kansas suffered heavily, the outlook in those States being for not over 25 per cent. of a normal crop.

More or less serious damage also was done in South Central Missouri, Southern Mississippi, Northwestern Alabama, South and East Texas, Southwestern Georgia, Western Kentucky, Western Tennessee, Southern Idaho and portions of North Carolina.

"Elsewhere," the committee finds, "the outlook is so promising that, in general a crop of peaches approaching the normal seems more than a likelihood."

Health a Factor in Success.

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular—he is never well when they are constipated. For constipation you will find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. Sold by all dealers.

RECORD RAISE IS MADE FOR COUNTY OF BATH

Frankfort, Ky., May 23.—Bath county, which was given a raise of 25 per cent. in its assessment last year, failed to come within $1,081,737 of the equalized valuation of its property for 1913 and was raised 30 per cent. by the State Board of Equalization on its 1914 assessment. Farm land in Bath was equalized at $3,607,703 in 1913, and the 1914 assessment was $2,833,095; town property was equalized at $51,551 in 1913, and assessed at $40,749 for 1914. This is the largest increase made by the board.

Franklin, Fayette and Kenton county assessments were allowed to stand. Farm lands were raised 10 per cent. in Carroll and Gallatin counties, and 5 per cent. in Boyle county.

"Uncle Joe" Once More.

Danville, Ill., May 21.—Former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon formally announced his candidacy for Congress from the Nineteenth district here to-day. Progressive leaders mean to ask Theodore Roosevelt to make two speeches in the district in opposition to Mr. Cannon.

THE MEXICAN CRISIS PROVING VERY COSTLYUrgent Deficiency Bill Shows That Large Sums Are Needed.

Washington, May 23.—The "further urgent deficiency" appropriation bill, making provision for more than $6,000,000 for the present fiscal year, largely on account of the Mexican crisis, was before the House for action. The approximate amount of the deficiencies in appropriations of the Quartermaster's Department of the army, due to the Mexican situation, to June 30 next, is $4,573,136.

It includes $1,100,149 for subsistence, $2,429,070 for transportation of the army, both along the border and to Mexico, and numerous other items relating to pay on account of increased strength of the army by reason of the Mexican troubles. Of the total amount in the deficiency estimates on account of Mexico covered in the bill, the Government already is obligated for $1,624,852.

Among other things, the bill meets a War Department estimate of $43,390 for movement of troops on account of the Colorado strike, and $14,715 for the squadron of the Twelfth cavalry from Fort Meade to Fort Wingate. It was set out that the expenses of the House Mines Committees that investigated the Colorado and Michigan strikes aggregated $6,000 and $4,000 respectively.

We will send the Hartford Herald one year and the Atlanta Tribune Weekly Constitution from now until September 15th, 1914, for only $1.25. Better subscribe now—the sooner you get your name on our list the more Constitutions you get for 25c extra.

tively. An appropriation of $15,000 was authorized for these inquiries, and the two committees are expected to use all of it before completing their work.

ARRESTED CHARGED WITH SELLING STOLEN GOODS

The Owingsboro Messenger of Sunday says:

Rommie Rhodes, charged with grand larceny, was arrested in Henderson by Chief of Police Bailey, shortly after 9 o'clock last night. Officer Matthews will leave on the noon train to-day for Henderson and will return with Rhodes at 3:45 o'clock.

Several weeks ago Officer Ambrose, considered as one of the best detectives on the local police department, learned that Rhodes was dispensing with the property of the Ames company, where he had been employed for a number of years. Just when he had woven a complete net around the man, Rhodes slipped out. The police at Louisville, Evansville and Henderson have been on the lookout for Rhodes since his hurried departure. He arrived in Henderson last night and the police there had no trouble in arresting him. The charge against Rhodes is a very serious one, being identical with that
